

SECRET ONLY

17 December 1954

MEMORANDUM FOR THE RECORD

SUBJECT: 16 and 17 December Briefing of Task Force on Intelligence Activities.

25X1

1. The Communications Office briefing was presented on 16 December 1954 and was followed by a conducted tour of the Communication establishments [redacted] on 17 December. The briefing was presented to the joint committee composed of General Christiansen, Colonel Lane, Colonel Miller and Mr. McGruder. General Christiansen, however, did not accompany the group on the tour.

2. The greatest interest in the entire Communications picture was centered in Colonel Miller, who did most of the questioning. Colonel Miller's questions were principally concerned with technical aspects and the possibility of duplication of effort with the Department of Defense. Colonel Lane, on the other hand, for the most part was an avid listener and only queried General McClelland on the cost of operations and the number of people involved.

3. The entire group was quite interested in the emergency CIA headquarters and the plans for its administration. The one point, however, which seemed to cause them some concern was whether the officials designated to proceed to this area in case of disaster would actually do so, leaving their wives and children behind.

25X1 4. The group was particularly impressed with recent developments in transmitting and receiving equipment and especially with the new [redacted] transmitter.

5. Colonel Lane was somewhat restrained by the presence of the rest of the Committee and later remarked to General McClelland that he would like to return some time in January to ask a few more questions, for which this group was not cleared, and in addition to meet all the COMMO people.

25X1

25X1 [redacted]
[redacted]

SECRET

~~SECRET~~ EYES ONLY

17 December 1954

MEMORANDUM FOR THE RECORD

SUBJECT: 16 and 17 December Briefing of Task Force on Intelligence Activities.

1. The Communications Office briefing was presented on 16 December 1954 and was followed by a conducted tour of the Communication establishments [REDACTED] on 17 December. The briefing was presented to the joint committee composed of General Christiansen, Colonel Lane, Colonel Miller and Mr. McGruder. General Christiansen, however, did not accompany the group on the tour.

2. The greatest interest in the entire Communications picture was centered in Colonel Miller, who did most of the questioning. Colonel Miller's questions were principally concerned with technical aspects and the possibility of duplication of effort with the Department of Defense. Colonel Lane, on the other hand, for the most part was an avid listener and only queried General McClelland on the cost of operations and the number of people involved.

3. The entire group was quite interested in the emergency CIA headquarters and the plans for its administration. The one point, however, which seemed to cause them some concern was whether the officials designated to proceed to this area in case of disaster would actually do so, leaving their wives and children behind.

4. The group was particularly impressed with recent developments in transmitting and receiving equipment and especially with the new [REDACTED] transmitter.

5. Colonel Lane was somewhat restrained by the presence of the rest of the Committee and later remarked to General McClelland that he would like to return some time in January to ask a few more questions, for which this group was not cleared, and in addition to meet all the COMMO people.

This document has been approved for release through the HISTORICAL REVIEW PROGRAM of the Central Intelligence Agency.

Date 5/5/92
HRP 89-2

~~SECRET~~ EYES ONLY

010204